Community-Campus Partnerships for Social Change

Join us at C²Uxpo 2015, May 26-29, 2015!

- Join us in Ottawa on May 26-29 for the most important gathering yet of community-campus partnership leaders from across Canada and the United States
- Learn how engagement between communities, universities, and colleges has generated innovations in social, health, education, citizenship, and employment policy—and has improved neighbourhoods and towns at the same time
- Hear keynote speakers on how partnerships can support an inquiry into missing and murdered Aboriginal women, how governments can mount credible public engagement campaigns, how digital platforms offer new tools for engaging Millennials, and how non-academic partners in the research process can equalize power relations with academic institutions
- Connect with peers on the best methods and tools for structuring community-campus partnerships that are based on strategy, transparency, trust and mutual benefit
- Re-energize yourself and others for the exciting work ahead in the important sector of community-campus engagement—or, as some call it, the knowledge democracy movement
